

Dream for Our Children - Dec 2025

快樂童年 眾幸福
Happy childhoods uplift us all

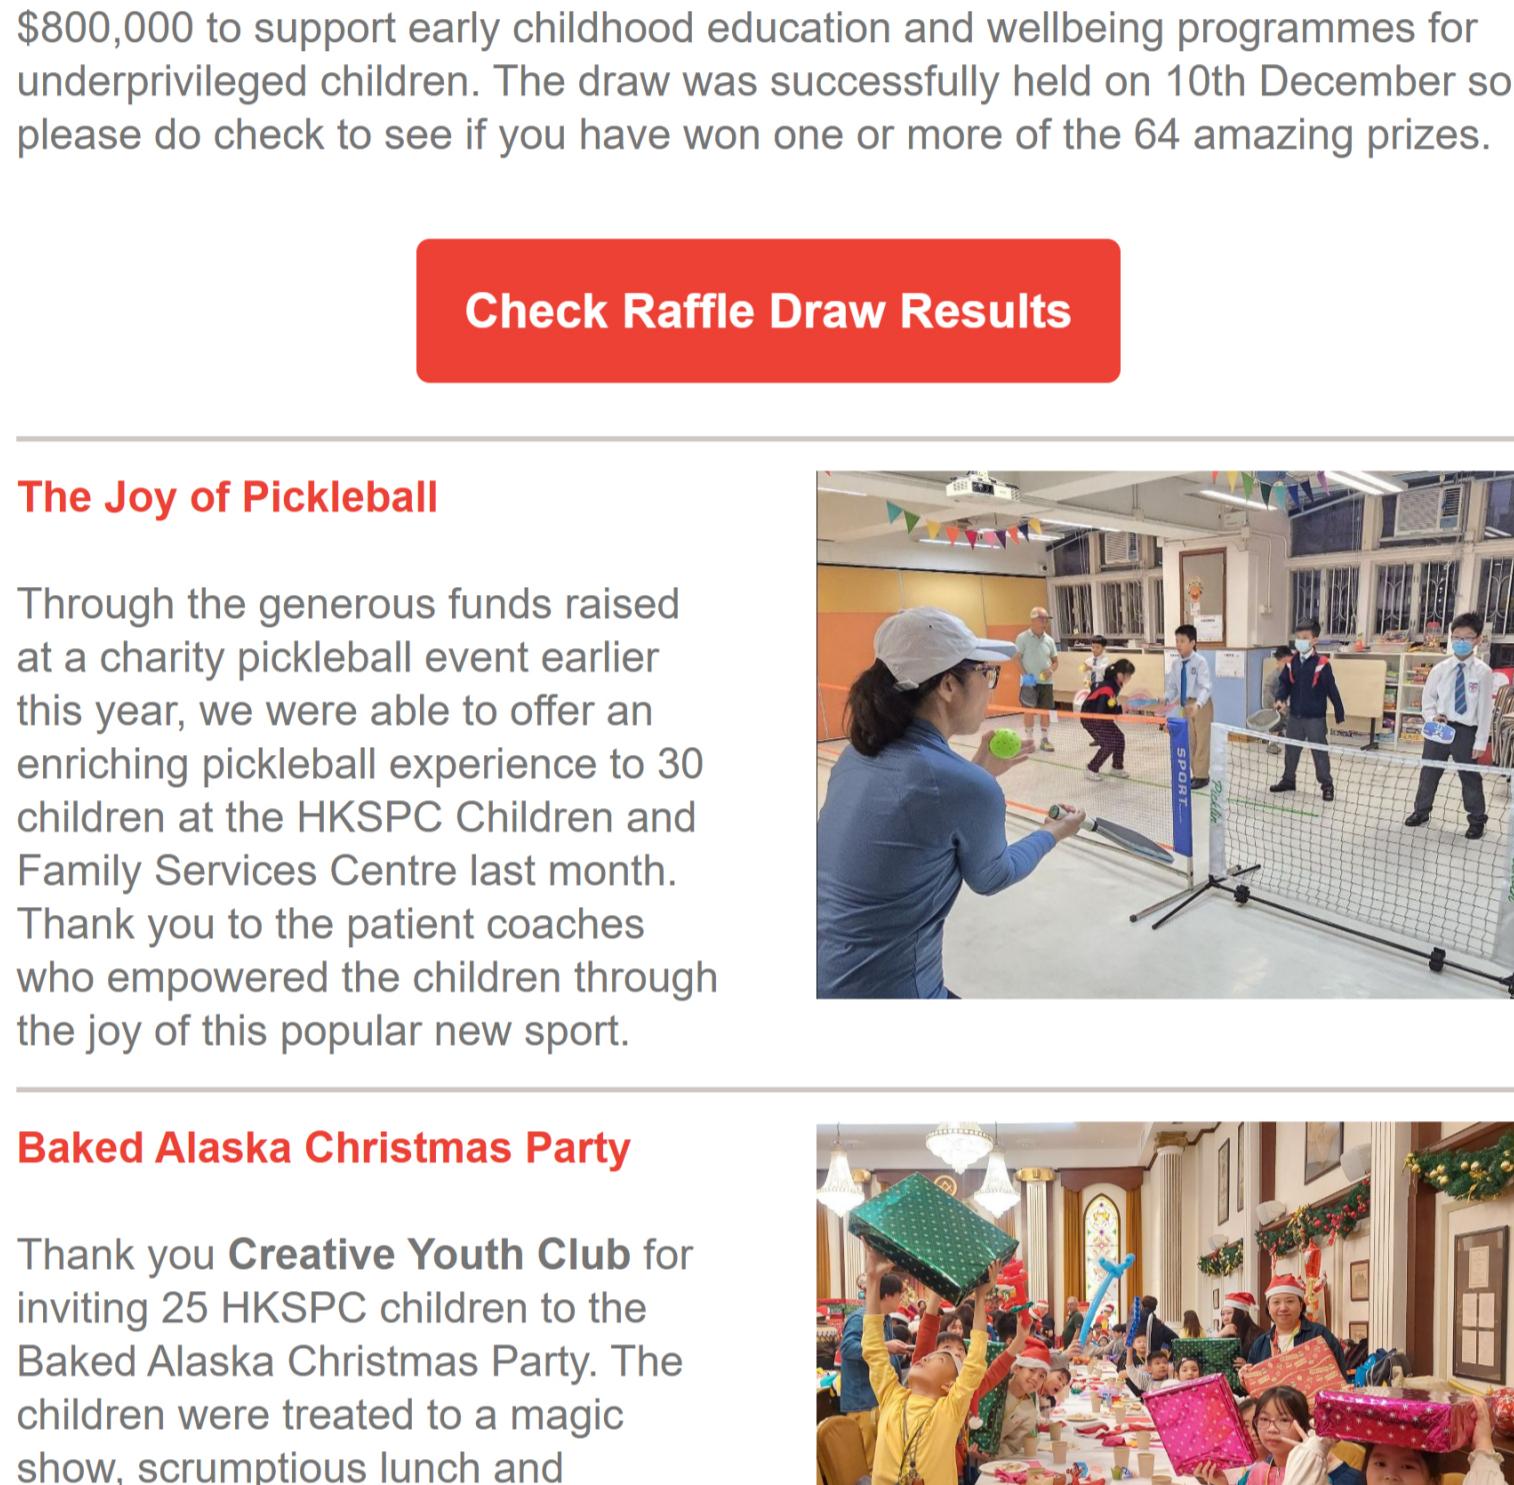

Dear Supporters,

In the wake of the catastrophic Tai Po fire, the past few weeks have been difficult for many of us. Children have vivid imaginations and the distressing images and stories they absorb—and the strong emotions behind them—may not always be fully expressed.

As the advocate for early childhood wellbeing, HKSPC has strengthened our ongoing community support by introducing the Post-Disaster Children and Family Healing Programme. The first seminar in this programme featured Professor Yip Kam Shing who shared his expertise about helping children heal from trauma. Continue reading for more details about this free programme and Professor Yip's recommendations.

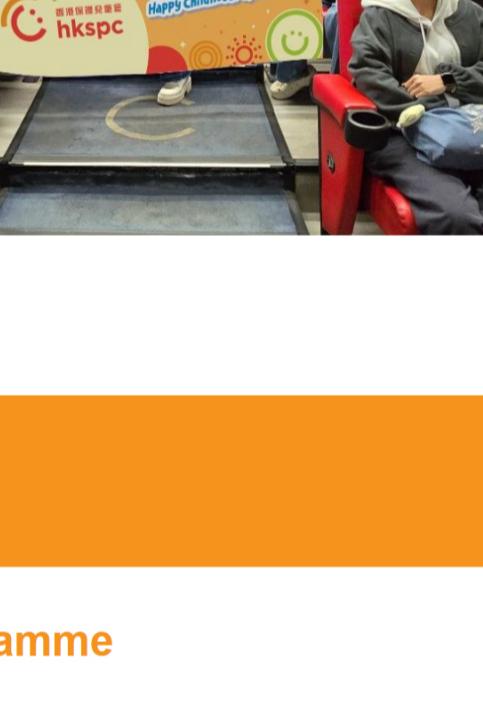

In this issue, we also feature several events that brought hope to our beneficiaries this month and the results of the HKSPC Charity Raffle 2025.

May your Christmas be a peaceful one, and your New Year filled with strength and hope.

This Month's Highlights

The Joy of Pickleball

Through the generous funds raised at a charity pickleball event earlier this year, we were able to offer an enriching pickleball experience to 30 children at the HKSPC Children and Family Services Centre last month. Thank you to the patient coaches who empowered the children through the joy of this popular new sport.

Baked Alaska Christmas Party

Thank you Creative Youth Club for inviting 25 HKSPC children to the Baked Alaska Christmas Party. The children were treated to a magic show, scrumptious lunch and generous gifts from Santa. This was a very memorable event for everyone who attended.

Zootopia 2 at the Cinema

Ms. Amy Chau, Vice-Chairman of the HKSPC Fundraising Committee and a group of generous donors sponsored an exclusive screening of Zootopia 2 for HKSPC beneficiaries on the 13th of this month. Ms. Chau also prepared snacks and gifts for each parent-child pair who attended, much to their surprise and delight.

Thank you for your thoughtfulness!

What's New

Post Disaster Children and Family Healing Programme

Through a series of free lectures, play therapy and art therapy at various locations across Hong Kong, the Post-Disaster Children and Family Healing Programme aims to help families, in particular those affected by the Tai Po fires, process emotions and heal in a secure environment, guiding children to release stress, rebuild parent-child bonds, and restore psychological well-being.

This programme is provided in partnership with the Child Parent Relationship Therapy Association of Hong Kong and the Department of Counselling and Psychology, Hong Kong Shue Yan University and is free and open to all.

Save the Date - HKSPC Centenary Flag Day 18 April 2026

In 2026, HKSPC will celebrate 100 years of advocacy for early childhood wellbeing and dedicated service to our community.

In the last 100 years, research has affirmed that early childhood is the vital "golden window" for laying foundational skills for lifelong success. Support our Centenary flag day on 18 April 2026 and help us improve outcomes for Hong Kong's next generation.

Child Wellbeing

Helping children heal from trauma

Exposure to scenes of devastation, either directly or indirectly, can have significant and lasting psychological, emotional, and physical effects. How can we help young children make sense of their confusion and gently ease their shock? How can we guide them to understand the unpredictability of disasters while fostering empathy and compassion for those affected?

During a seminar hosted by HKSPC this month, Professor Yip of Saint Francis University shared his insights on how to support your children through these difficult times. He also wrote a feature article on the topic. Read more
